Methods for submitting the application and formulating the rankings

For each group, the ranking of all the applications presented will be formulated on the basis of the score obtained by each candidate, calculated as follows:

Academic performance: with the attribution of a score deriving from the weighted average of the marks on the credits acquired in the academic year 2022/23 (exams taken from 1 September 2022 to 31 July 2023), multiplied by a corrective factor, equal to the lower of "1" "And the ratio between the number of credits acquired in the academic year of reference and the value set by Collegio as follows:

- 52 credits for students enrolled in bachelor's (three-year) or single-cycle degree courses in the academic year 2022/23;
- 56 credits for students enrolled, in the academic year 2022/23, for years subsequent to the first one in bachelor's or single-cycle degree courses and for students enrolled in courses of master's degree.

! Credits acquired in exams that do not involve grades, and for which only passing is recognized (including the thesis), will not contribute to the calculation of the weighted average of the marks, but will be considered in the calculation of the corrective factor. Any extra exams (for example those taken as part of the Enterprising project of the Politecnico) will not contribute to forming either the weighted average or the corrective factor.

Honors will not be evaluated for the purpose of calculating the weighted average. The weighted average, correction factor and score values will be rounded to the third decimal number¹.

In the event of a tie resulting from the two criteria described above, the ranking will be drawn up according to the following criteria, to be applied in succession in the event of a tie:

- greater number of honors;
- indicator of the equivalent economic situation of the lowest household.

The study prizes will not be awarded to students who will result in the ranking with a score lower than 20.

If a student has already won a prize from the Call for Study Awards for the academic year 2021/22, it will be placed at the end of the reference ranking.

If it is not possible to use all the Study Awards announced due to a lack of candidates, any funds used for the institutional activities of the Foundation for the year 2023.

¹Rounding will be done by approximating the third decimal place downwards, if the fourth decimal place is between 0 and 4, upwards, if the fourth decimal place is between 5 and 9.

Further study awards may also be awarded that may be made available for this Call by and no later than the day of publication of the final rankings.
